Encino Energy Supports 630 Frontline Workers

Encourages Community to "Be Safe. Be Hopeful. Be Kind"

Louisville, OH – Encino Energy provided Baskets of Hope to frontline workers in Stark County and Carroll County serving over 630 men and women supporting essential emergency, health and safety services to the public during COVID-19.

In Stark County, Encino provided baskets to: Louisville Police Department, Louisville Fire Department, Stark County Sheriff's Office, Mercy Medical Center, and Aultman Hospital. Baskets were sourced with local snacks from In Light of the Future Catering and Events.

"Thanks to the entire team at Encino," said Larry Collins, City Manager, City of Louisville. "This act of kindness means a lot to our folks. We really appreciate your ongoing support of our community."

In Carroll County, Encino provided baskets to: Carroll County Sheriff's Office, Carroll County Emergency Management Agency, Carroll County Health Department, and Carroll County Council on Aging.

"It is great to have good private partners showing support during this time of difficulties," said Tom Cottis, Director - Carroll County Emergency Management Agency. "Thank you, Encino Energy!"

The Baskets of Hope outreach to local hospitals, fire departments and police will continue in other counties in Ohio and Texas. The effort is supported by financial gifts and time from employees with matching contributions from the Company.

Throughout the pandemic, Encino has continued to support communities throughout eastern and southeastern Ohio, with a focus on the message to "Be Safe. Be Hopeful. Be Kind." Encino's Director of External Affairs, Jackie Stewart, advised last month that the Company also launch a campaign with the Jefferson County Chamber to highlight local, essential small businesses and provide information on local restaurants providing takeout as well as several public service announcements – all focused on positive messages of hope.

"Encino appreciates our frontline workers in emergency, health and safety always, and now more than ever," said Jackie Stewart. "We've been very blessed to continue working during this pandemic and we thank Governor DeWine for understanding that energy is essential to human life. The protection of our environment and the health and safety of the communities in which we live and work is paramount to Encino's core values and really is the heart of our Community Partnership Program. As we continue to navigate these waters as a state, country and world, we want to simply encourage everyone to continue to Be Safe. Be Hopeful. Be Kind. We will get through this together!"
